

Blendi Salaj was born in Tirana in 1979. He is one of the first bloggers, and online publicist in Albania, starting back in 1998 when the internet was still very young and he was a student in the United States. Since returning home in 2008, Mr. Salaj has become a prominent voice in the public discourse with a very popular morning show on Radio and TV and many appearances on important television programs. Holding a degree in Communication, with a concentration in Film, Blendi has combined his natural curiosity, communication skills and humor to become a beloved character in the national media scene.